Welcome to the BPA 2025 Spring Conference in Atlanta!

On behalf of the Black Psychiatrists of America, it is my great honor to welcome you to what promises to be our largest and most impactful conference in many years. We are thrilled to see such an incredible gathering of medical students, residents, aspiring psychiatrists, and esteemed colleagues—each of you representing the bright future of our field.

The remarkable growth of BPA is a testament to our collective dedication and the urgent need for culturally informed psychiatric care. As we convene in Atlanta, a city with deep historical ties to our mission, we are especially grateful for our ongoing partnership with the Department of Psychiatry at Morehouse School of Medicine. Their legacy and commitment to advancing Black mental health align perfectly with our vision.

This conference is more than a scientific exchange—it is an opportunity to renew our shared purpose, strengthen our community, and reinvigorate the spirit of psychiatry. As we continue this journey together, we are reminded that our quest is far from over. But with each of you here, we move forward with confidence and determination.

Let's make this an unforgettable conference. Welcome to Atlanta!

Dear Attendee:

On behalf of the Black Psychiatrists of America (BPA), it is my honor and privilege to welcome you to our Spring Conference in the vibrant city of Atlanta, Georgia. We are thrilled to be at The Stirling Atlanta Midtown Hotel for what promises to be an enriching experience centered around this year's theme: "Shaping Health Equity: Fighting for Our Minds."

We are especially proud to feature the work of Morehouse School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, chaired by the esteemed Dr. Sarah Vinson, whose leadership and vision continue to inspire progress in mental health equity. Their contributions to this conference reflect Morehouse's legacy of excellence and commitment to shaping health equity.

Over the next few days, thanks to the work of Scientific Program Committee Chair, Dr. Nicole Washington, and Committee Co-Chair, Dr. Danielle Hairston, you will have the opportunity to engage with thought-provoking speakers and connect with colleagues who share your passion for improving mental health outcomes in marginalized communities. Whether you are here to learn, share your expertise, or build lasting connections, we know your presence will enrich this gathering.

I want to thank our Executive Director, Dr. Napoleon Higgins, and the administrative staff of VA Gladiators, led by CEO Lana Johnson and Executive Assistant, Jennis Watson, in managing the logistics of this conference. If you have any questions or concerns, do not hesitate to find Napoleon, Lana, or myself for answers.

As we embark on this journey together, let us remain steadfast in our commitment to shaping a future where mental health care is accessible, equitable, and empowering for all. Thank you for joining us in this vital work.

Welcome to Atlanta. Welcome to the BPA Spring Conference. Let's shape health equity together.

Sincerely,

Stephen McLeod-Bryant, MD
President, Black Psychiatrists of America, Inc.

March 13, 2025

Welcome to the BPA 2025 Spring Conference in Atlanta!

It is with tremendous excitement that I welcome you to Atlanta on behalf of Morehouse School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences. This promises to be a truly remarkable gathering of brilliant minds dedicated to advancing psychiatric care for our communities.

We are deeply honored to co-host this conference in our vibrant city, a place where civil rights history and innovation converge. Atlanta's rich legacy of leadership provides the perfect backdrop for our collective work in addressing mental health disparities and promoting responsive care.

The collaboration between BPA and Morehouse School of Medicine represents a powerful synergy in our field. Together, we are uniquely positioned to transform psychiatric practice, education and research in ways that meaningfully impact the communities we serve. This partnership embodies our shared commitment to excellence, equity and advocacy.

This conference offers far more than scientific discourse—it provides a vital space for connection, renewal and inspiration. As we gather here, surrounded by colleagues who share our passion and purpose, we have an extraordinary opportunity to strengthen our professional community and chart new paths forward in our collective mission.

I invite you to fully embrace all that this conference has to offer, to forge new relationships and to leave Atlanta energized and empowered. The future of psychiatric care depends on precisely the kind of collaboration and innovation that this gathering fosters.

Let's make these days in Atlanta truly transformative. Welcome!

Sarah Y. Vinson, MD, DFAPA
